THE STATE.

Matters of Interest and Importance Occurring the Past Week.

Fire in the Illinois Central shops at Paducah caused a loss of $25,000.

The balance in the State Treasury at the close of business July 31 was $215,398.13.

George W. Ranck, the historian and capitalist, of Lexington, was killed by a train near that city.

Russell Green, a country merchant, was waylaid and perhaps fatally injured by robbers in Frankfort county.

Miss Amelia Jackson was accidentally shot and killed by her brother, Will Hubbard, of Clay county.

The Democratic Legislative Committee for the Fifth district, composed of Lyon and Marshall counties, met at Calvert City and declared J. Boyard Wyatt the nominee.

When A. D. Beauchamp, of near Harrodsburg, Ky., threshed his crop of seventy-five acres he had thirty-five shocks, making in all twenty-four bushels. This is an indication of what the drought has done for the farmer.

The census bureau finds that the female population of Kentucky constitutes 45.2 per cent of the entire population. The total population of the State is 2,147,174, and of this 982,439 are foreign born. There are 264,895 negroes.

Hon. Charles K. Wheeler opened his senatorial campaign in a speech at Tunnel Hill, in Hardin county, Saturday. Judge Cantrell and Congressman Smith were also there, but only made brief talks. Several thousand people were present.

Gov. Beckham has pardoned Glenn Steffey, of Hopkins county, who was serving a life sentence in the penitentiary for complicity in the murder of Hewlett Howton, a victim of regulators. The petition for pardon was the largest ever presented at Frankfort in behalf of a prisoner.

Judge J. D. White, of Bardwell, has given out officially the statement that he would positively be a candidate for re-election as Judge of the Court of Appeals from this district. It has persistently been published and rumored that he would not be a candidate, but he will. He will have several opponents.

In cleaning out an old spring within twenty-five or thirty yards of his residence, Mr. Chas. Ratcliff, a hardware dealer of Princeton, struck water which is so strongly impregnated with oil that it is unfit for use. The oil, according to statements of experts, is of a fine quality.

Incendiarism made a futile attempt to burn the town of Crittenden, situated on the Cincinnati Southern, eleven miles north of Wilmore. They set fire to the town at four different places, at the same time, but it was extinguished before much headway had been gained.

There is trouble brewing between the typographical union and the newspapers of Paducah. The union has demanded an increase of one-third in wages, and a reduction from nine and a half hours a day to eight hours. The publishers of the four daily papers met and refused to accede to the agreement.

THE PAN-AMERICAN.

Rev. Price Visits the Exposition and Gives His Views Thereon.

A visit to the Pan-American Exposition at Buffalo is well worth one's time and money if he has them to spare. I shall speak only of the newer features, or features of excellence in this exposition. The arrangement of the buildings and of the grounds is excellent. The main buildings are arranged in a circular form in the shape of the letter C, with the Court of the Fountains in the center, or rather occupying the main space in the center of this circle. Excepting the Art Gallery, which is removed to a distance for fear of fire, a few steps from any of the main buildings will take you to the next adjoining one.

In architectural design, in the elaborateness of the ornamentation, and in the beauty and variety of coloring, the Pan-American buildings are quite superior to those of the World's Fair at Chicago. Of course there is not that massiveness of structure, but the variety of the coloring and the beauty of the finish affords a spectacle which is constantly pleasing to the eye.

While the exhibits are not so numerous or massive as in Chicago, yet they are choice. The best of everything is to be seen, and there are not so many repetitions as in Chicago; that is, you do not see the same thing over and over in different buildings.

Again, the actual working department of the exposition is of superior merit. Many things are manufactured before your eyes. For instance there is a shoe manufactory showing every phase through which the shoe passes, from the crude leather to the finished product.

The working department of Graphic Arts is very fine. In this department the advanced forms of printing, engraving, lithographing, envelope making, etc., is exhibited to all. It is interesting to see them prepare the plates and print the Weather Bureau maps. Every morning about 11 o'clock you can get fresh from the press a map indicating the weather for the next 24 hours.

But the feature of the Pan-American Exposition which surpasses all others thus far, is the electrical display. The Electrical Building is teeming with the mysteries of this subtle force. The latest electrical machines and appliances are here exhibited. In this building are the receivers in which the vast volume of electricity from the generators of Niagara Falls is received, transmitted into light and force, and transmitted to every part of the exposition grounds. The Electric Tower rises 400 feet high and is most beautiful in construction. For 25 cents you can ascend in an elevator 350 feet high. Here are galleries around the tower from which you have a delightful view of the exposition grounds of the city, and of the surrounding country for miles. On a clear day, with good field glasses, you can get a fine view of the country for 25 miles, in almost every direction. But the illumination at night is the climax of beauty. Every building is lined with electric bulbs wrought into fantastic forms and figures. There are thousands of poles with clusters of electric bulbs on top. When the illumination begins these bulbs glow with a reddish tint, and so dim they can scarce be seen, but with each successive second they glow with a stronger light until, at last everything is aglow with a dazzling brilliance. It is interesting to see from 30,000 to 50,000 people gather in the esplanade or open space in front of the Electric Tower for an hour beforehand, awaiting the splendors of the electrical display.

Niagara Falls! What may be said of it? That stupendous marvel of nature, which has attracted the sight seer as well as the lover of nature until the very rocks are worn smooth beneath the mighty tread of that army of constant visitors. As it pours over the lofty cliffs in sheets of feathery spray, or in the bluer tint of the deeper falls of the Canadian side, plunging headlong into the seething abyss below, it fills one's mind with feelings of the sublime. The Gorge Route should never be missed. The trolley cars can take one down the Canadian side on the top of the bank two hundred feet above the roaring river, circling around the whirlpool and crossing the river at Queenstown, below the rapids. Then you come up the river on the car along the water's edge, passing the whirlpool and the whirlpool rapids, and then gradually ascend the bank until you get to the top at Niagara Falls.

The whirlpool rapids is a wonderful scene. All the waters of the great lakes are compressed into a narrow gorge, but with such a fall that the water runs at the rate of 37 miles an hour, and Prof. Lyell calculated that 1,500,000,000 cubic feet of water passed every minute. The channel has many great boulders in it, against which the rushing torrent dashes with impetuous fury, only to be thrown in foamy masses to an astonishing height.

Those who are fond of exciting scenes can take a ride on the "Maid of the Mist" right up against the raging descent of the mighty torrent, until the spray of the falling waters cover you as with a film of cloud.

The islands above the falls are attractive, and give a fine view of the water in the rapids before it takes its awful plunge. I shall return to Chautauque for a ten days rest, and then for home.

LETTER FROM KANSAS.

FT. RILEY, KAN., Aug. 2.

EDITOR PRESS: I have arrived at my post and according to request will send the Press a few lines.

I (which is we, as it includes the Marion troops), arrived at this fort July 5th. Immediately after our arrival our government goods were issued to us, which includes clothing, food and bedding material. James Summerville was sent to the Sixth Battery, while the rest of the boys are quartered at the Seventh post.

This is a very beautiful fort; the government owns nearly 25,000 acres of land, and many thousand dollars worth of buildings. The trees here are dying on account of need of rain. Even the grass, which was green when we arrived, has been burned up by the hot weather.

All of the important buildings are located on Sheridan Avenue, which includes the Administration Building, chapel, canteen, officers' residences and guard house.

Secretary of War Root was here last week inspecting the fort. The general opinion is that a national guard barracks will be erected here.

We have drill two hours every day, and after it is over we can do as we please.

I think we shall enjoy a soldier life. I would write more but my time is limited. Will give a more complete description next time.

Gov. Beckham celebrated his thirty-second birthday Monday.

On July 31 there was a balance of $215,398.12 in the State treasury.

The prosperous times has not, it seems, diminished the delinquent tax list.

The life and fire insurance companies have paid $130,000 into the State treasury and $10,000 more is due from the same source.

Schley and Sampson might probably satisfy some of their friends by taking the Brooklyn and New York to Santiago bay and fighting it to a finish.

Senator Blackburn, of Kentucky, is to be married to Mrs. Mary F. Blackburn, widow of the late Judge H. H. Blackburn of Martinsburg, West Va., who was a distant relative of the Senator. The wedding is expected to take place before Congress meets.

In the opening speech of his campaign for United States Senator, Congressman Chas. K. Wheeler declared himself strongly in favor of selecting the party nominee for the Senate by primary election to be held at the same time of the November election. He said that individuals had a right to say who they wanted to represent them in the United States Senate.

Now that we are to vote upon the adoption of the stock law it would be well enough for neighbors to school themselves in coolness and good humor, for the front gate, cross-road and goods box discussions. If this question does not make orators and logicians of us all, then the school of experience is not what it is supposed to be.

Mr. Marion F. Pogue, of Crittenden county, who will represent Crittenden and Livingston counties in the next Kentucky Legislature, was in town yesterday. Mr. Pogue says he finds Democrats wide awake and is confident of success in November. The Democratic nominee is looking fine, and when the election returns come in next November Bill Bishop will realize that he has been following a race horse.—Livingston Banner.

THE STOCK LAW.

The Question to be Submitted at November Election.

At the special session of the fiscal court last Friday the following petition was presented:

We the undersigned legal voters of Crittenden county do hereby petition said court and ask that a submission of the question whether hogs and sheep shall be permitted to run at large in said county. That said question shall be submitted to the legal voters of said county at the next regular election held in and for said county, on Tuesday, Nov. 5, 1901.

The petition is signed by 129 legal voters, who live in various sections of the county. The stock law has been discussed by the people of this county for some years past, and strong partisans have developed on each side of the question. The "milk cow" has figured largely in these discussions, and the petitioners have eliminated this phase of the question by making the law they seek applicable to sheep and hogs only.

A MYSTERIOUS CASE

Of Poisoning in Livingston County Causes Great Excitement.

A mysterious case of poisoning occurred at an ice cream supper at Mount Spring, about six miles northwest of Smithland, last week as a result of which two young ladies, Misses Ida Settles and Fannie Sisco, and two young men, Jesse Garrett and Earn Guess, came near dying.

A bucket of water, which was brought from the spring by a young man named Fred Gaines, was found to contain tincture of cantharides. Of this water the four persons who were taken so suddenly ill had drunk freely. All of the young people poisoned suffered greatly during Saturday night and Sunday, and the two young ladies, it was thought could not recover, but all are now believed to be out of danger.

The drug was, no doubt, placed in the water by some one with a criminal intent, and the people of that neighborhood are greatly excited and justly indignant over the matter. The parties whose lives were saved only by the most careful treatment, are among the most prominent of that section, and a thorough investigation of the dastardly crime will be made.

New Superintendent.

Mr. H. A. Haynes has been made Superintendent of the Flour Spar Co., and is actively engaged in the work incident thereto. Harry is one of the few men who have the happy faculty of adapting themselves readily to any work that comes their way, and that he will succeed as a miner goes without saying. The Flour Spar Co. is composed of local capitalists exclusively, and it is making some money for the investors. Really safe and a good price is found for the fine spar from its mines.

Returned from North Carolina.

Mrs. Ned Andrews reached home a few days ago from North Carolina, where she went shortly after the death of her husband several months ago. She has lost four members of the family with consumption and a beautiful seventeen-year-old daughter is nearing the dark river. The trip to the Old Bay State was made with the hope that the climate might benefit the invalid.

Moved to New Cemetery.

Rev. J. W. Bigham has had the bodies of his three children, buried nearly twenty years ago in the old cemetery, moved to the new cemetery and placed by the side of the daughter recently buried. This family has buried six children—two are interred at Hopkinsville and four at Marion. The tidal waves of sorrow have six times rolled over the threshold of this brave, loyal minister of the gospel, but that faith and hope he has so long and faithfully preached to others give him the fortitude to bear these trials as only the servant of God can.

Badly Bruised.

Saturday night, near the Hampton camp ground, some reckless fellow drove into a sorry occupied by J. C. Butler, wife and two children, and Mrs. Geo. P. C. and two children, so frightening Mr. Butler's team that it ran away and upset the carry. All the occupants were thrown out and badly bruised. Mr. Butler was severely hurt.

DEATH'S HARVEST.

Two Popular Young People Fall Before the Reaper.

R. G. Phillips died at the home of his brother-in-law, W. J. Hill, of the Trilane neighborhood, Sunday night, after a month's illness, of typhoid fever. The interment took place at Sugar Grove cemetery Monday afternoon. The funeral service was conducted by Rev. W. F. Hogard.

For several months prior to his illness Mr. Phillips was employed as salesman in McConnell & Stone's store in Marion, and as he became acquainted with the people, he grew in public favor. His genial disposition, affable manners and handsome face, and straightforward, frank way of doing business, made him personal as well as business friends.

He was born in this county 26 years ago, and was a son of the late Mack Phillips, who was one of the early settlers of the county, and the family is one of the oldest and most respectable of this region. Two brothers, John T. and William, now residents of Arkansas, and two sisters, Mrs. W. J. Hill, of this county, and Mrs. W. F. Hogard, of Eddyville, survive him.

"Whom the gods loved die young."

The old saying certainly seems true when we see the Death Angel claim for his victim one of the fairest and purest young ladies of our city. Miss Emma Bigham, the beautiful and beloved daughter of Rev. J. W. Bigham, passed away Friday morning at six o'clock, after suffering for several weeks with typhoid fever. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. Joinder at the family residence Saturday morning, and the remains were laid to rest in the new cemetery. The young lady was born in Lafayette, Ky., Dec. 17, 1880. She was a devoted member of the Methodist church, an active worker in the Sabbath school and Epworth League. She was passionately fond of music and was one of the leading members of the Methodist choir. She was always kind and of a joyous, happy disposition. Her cheerful, loving spirit brought sunshine into any circle she entered, and her departure for the bliss of heaven leaves a deep sorrow upon her many friends and the crushed hearts of her father and mother, who mourn the loss of their darling Emma.

In their affliction the bereaved family have the tender, deep sympathy of the entire community, and the friends of the popular minister and his loved family throughout the State, and the Princeton district especially, will mingle their tears with theirs in this sad hour.

The following resolutions were passed by the Methodist Sunday school:

Whereas, the hand of Providence has removed our beloved sister, Emma Owen Bigham, from the scene of her temporal labors, and from our Sunday school, Epworth League and choir, and in view of the loss we have sustained by her death, and of the still greater loss sustained by those who were nearest and dearest to her,

Be it resolved, That we deeply mourn her untimely death, and sincerely regret the loss of her faithful services as co-laborer in our Sunday school and Epworth League work, taking refuge in the thought, however, that after having ended her earthly trials, she has at last joined the redeemed in heaven.

Resolved, That we tender our earnest and heartfelt sympathies to the afflicted family, and commend them for consolation to Him who orders all things for the best, and whose chastisements are dealt by a loving hand.

Resolved, That we cherish her memory by performing all the rites due so solemn an occasion.

Resolved, That the above resolutions be published in the Crittenden Press and church papers, and a copy of same be sent to the bereaved parents.

Bad Conduct.

Sunday a young man named Ray fired off his pistol at the camp ground at Hampton and got himself arrested for his bad conduct. He was taken to Salem by constable Frank Scott, but succeeded in giving the officer "the slip," and is now at large, when it ought to be otherwise.

HUNTING ROCK-BOTTOM.

The Railroad People Sinking Holes Opposite Cave-in-Rock.

Last week a force of hands, with an engine and well-drill, came by steamer down the river and landed on R. N. Walker's farm, opposite Cave-in-Rock. They began work at the brink of the river and are driving holes through the earth to find the rock strata. Coning this way a hole will be driven every 500 feet across the bottom until the foothills are reached. It is generally understood that this work is being done by the Illinois Central railroad, though the contract for the privilege of crossing the farm is made in the name of M. Miller.

The line surveyed by the corps of engineers who recently went over the route from Marion to the Ohio river is being followed.

Definite or detailed information concerning the matter is still wanting; and, by the way, it is wanted by people along the line as bad as we all recently wanted rain, and it promises to be likewise as slow in coming.

The general opinion is that the long talked of road from Marion to Harrisburg, Ill., is in the tentative steps of building. A company is not likely to spend so much money without entertaining serious notions of building. At any rate it will in no wise be detrimental nor expensive to regard the road as one of the things the next future has in store for us.

SEVEN HUNDRED

And Fifty Poll Tax Payers on the Delinquent List.

According to call the magistrates convened in special session Friday for the purpose of receiving the sheriff's delinquent tax list, Sheriff Pickens presented the list, embracing some 800 names. It was discussed and examined by the members of the court, and some names were scratched off and the court reserved the list, leaving seven hundred and fifty names as delinquents.

Dried apples are going to be a good price; we want them all.

CRITTENDEN SPRINGS.

The Popular Watering Place Has Its Complement of Guests.

This has been one of the most prosperous seasons Crittenden Springs has ever enjoyed. The hotel is in splendid hands, and has for the past two weeks been full of guests, and the guests find it full of delights. The social features, the balls, the picnics, all go to make the sum of life here measure up to the ideal summer resort.

Mrs. W. O. Fergusson, of Evansville, who has been a social favorite here for some weeks, returned home Tuesday. Monday evening the following ladies gave a luncheon in her honor: Mesdames Jno.
A. Bell, Caswell Bennett, A. H.
Cardin, Vaughn, of Paducah, Mc-Farland, of Henderson, and Miss Leilia Goodwin of Paducah.

The evening recitations have been an enjoyable feature. Mrs.
A. H. Cardin, one of the most charming ladies here, has delighted the guests with her recitations.
Graceful in poise, winsome in manner, and forceful in utterance, she has made an enviable reputation as a monologist.

Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Hodge and their two daughters, of Louisville, have been among the pleasant people here the past week. They left Tuesday—Mrs. Hodge to visit her father, Capt. C. Y. Northern, of Livingston county, and Mr. Hodge to take up his work as Superintendent of Agents for one of the big insurance companies doing business in this State. Mr. Hodge has rapidly gone to the forefront as an insurance man, and now holds a trusted and lucrative position in one of the best companies.
If I mistake not he will go higher still, and as he is an old Crittenden county boy, I shall watch his deserved success with pleasure.

We have two candidates for State honors with us, and I aver that nowhere on the stump or hustings, or in party councils, or "in the trenches with the boys," are there two persons more popular with their friends and partisans than are Mrs. Caswell Bennett and Mrs. John A. Ball with the guests here, and if it were left to the spirits here congregated, the former would be unanimously accused State Librarian and the latter Enrolling Clerk of the Senate.

And why not? Both are from western Kentucky, the section that "never gets nothing, nohow," (Graves county excepted); both are competent, and both are widows of men who ably served their State and added lustre to their party's name; both husbands died while servants of the public, leaving as the only heritage to their families names that are synonymous for honesty and efficiency in the public service, and loyalty to the people of the great party that gave them promotion. In these times, when the spirit of commercialism (the brilliant plumage of the eagle of the dollars) is tending men from the old doctrines, it would be a fitting tribute to the memory of the dead, who were as true as the needle to the pole in life, to place the chaplet of victory on the brow of those who were nearest and dearest to them in life.

DO YOU?

What would you think if the robins should say:
"I believe I'll not sing this morn;
The worms are all dead or hidden away,
And everything's cold and forlorn?"

What would you think if the flower should sigh:
"I don't want to blossom to-day;
The wind is so cold, no blue in the sky;
The bees have all flitted away?"

What do you think of the mortal who bears Forever this wall in his breast:
"The earth is so sad, so burdened with care,
Come let us be sad with the rest?"

THUNDER TO ORDER.

Something Very Like the Real Thing Can Be Produced by the Experiment Here Described.

Even on the clearest, calmest day thunder, artificial it is true, yet strangely like natural thunder, can be manufactured by anyone who will try the following simple, newly-devised experiment.

Get a piece of ordinary twine two or three feet in length, and place it around the back of your head, according to the manner shown in the accompanying picture. Next bring the two ends forward past the ears, or, rather, past the auricles. The ears must then be closed by keeping the fingers

HOW TO MAKE THUNDER.

pressed firmly over them, and at the same time the fingers or hand must be pressed firmly over the twine at the point where it lies directly outside each auricle. Now ask some one to pull the two ends of the twine with his thumb and index finger, and then, a firm pressure being meanwhile maintained, to let them slip slowly through the fingers.

At once an illusion of thunder will be produced. You will hear peal after peal, and the firmer the pressure on the twine the louder will be the sound.
If a few knots are tied in the twine a still more startling illusion will be produced.—N. Y. Herald.

PILGRIMAGE TO MECCA.

There Was a Time When Every Pious Moslem Visited the Holy City Once at Least.

About 13 centuries ago Mohammed, which in Arabic means "the Praised," was born in Mecca, Arabia, which since that time has been held as the most holy city in Islam.

Some time after the death of Mohammed his disciples began to make pilgrimages to his birthplace, and the custom has continued ever since, although it is falling into disuse.

There was a time when every pious Moslem made at least one pilgrimage to the holy city, even if it beggared him, which, by the way, it generally did. The pilgrim was entitled to wear a green turban and be called Howadji, about the same as our "honorable."

Mecca is neither a large nor a handsome city. The streets are broad and rather regular, but unpaved, and the houses, built of brick or stone, are old and generally out of repair.

The Beit Ullah (House of God), containing the Kaaba, a building in which is enshrined the sacred black stone said to have been dropped from Paradise with Adam, is a large mosque, capable of containing 30,000 persons, and no other public building, sacred or profane, of any importance, is to be found in the city.

Contrary to the general belief, it is not remarkably difficult for a European or American Christian to visit Mecca, although the exploit is seldom attempted.

Dr. Hurgonje, of Holland, lived six months in Mecca in the guise of a Mohammedan effendi, or doctor, and other Christians have visited the holy city for a week or two. Of course they were disguised, and were familiar with Mohammedan prayers and ceremonies.

During the pilgrim season a disguise is comparatively easy on account of the vast and varied multitudes and the babel of languages. The danger at all times comes not so much from the authorities as from the fanatical mob, who would slay the hapless infidel with the greatest pleasure if they fathomed his secret.

The most terrible sufferings attend these vast excursions. All along the travelled routes the sheiks have their agents, who levy toll on the pilgrims on any or no pretence.

At Mecca, should the pilgrim reach the city, the poorest fare is exorbitantly dear and clearly unknown.

The people of Mecca live on the pilgrims, and if they have no money they may die of hunger, as they frequently do.

Burton says it is no uncommon sight to see the devotees drop in their tracks and die almost unnoticed upon the highway.

LIFE IN PORTO RICO.

In Our New Island Possession People Change Their Homes at the Will of the Wind.

There once lived in Porto Rico a little dark-skinned boy named Juan.
He did not wear any clothes because he was not yet nine years old. One warm afternoon he came down from the mountain side and lay under a banana tree near his hut. The hill across from him was pleasant to look at. It was covered thickly with palm, orange and other trees, while here and there a thatched hut peeped out from the mass of green. They made him think of his next day's work.
A storm had taken the roof off the hut, and he was to help his mother and father build a new one.

Turning to follow a blue and yellow bird in the branches Juan saw his mother coming up the path. She carried a bundle of clothes which she had washed in the river. Juan jumped up and ran to meet her. She smiled, patted him on the head and said: "Juan, pull the stove from under the tree; we must get supper."

His mother lighted the charcoal and Juan put plantain into it to bake.
He brought some oranges and bananas while his mother took down the dishes which were hung on the walls of the hut. The dishes were made from gourd shells.

Just then Juan's father came. He was glad to see his little boy, and a happy family sat down to supper. It was quite dark by this time. Juan's father got a guitar, while Juan crept into one corner of the house. He had neither bed nor covering. He heard his mother singing to the soft notes of the guitar and was soon asleep.

Juan awoke before it was light. He had scarcely eaten some rice when his father called out: "Get me the baskets; we must go to market." Juan handed the baskets to his father, who fastened them to the horse's back so that one hung on each side. They were filled with potatoes and corn.
The father climbed up and crossed his feet under the horse's neck. He put the boy in front of him and, calling his wife, "I wish you would make me a hat from the grass in the yard," started off.

A turn in the road brought them to the market. There were ox carts and people with baskets on their heads coming from all sides. Juan's father soon had his goods placed in piles on a mat. Everyone had his fruit or vegetables on mats. A pile of 30 lemons or 20 oranges could be bought for six cents.

Juan watched the sales for awhile.
Then he met an older boy and they soon became friends. He said his master owned a large plantation. On the way home Juan and his father rode through the main street of the town. There were about 100 little one-story houses side by side and a few stores.

A hungry-looking dog ran out to them from one of the doors. Farther on a lean pig tried to follow them, but it was tied fast to the doorpost.
Soon they met the milkman driving

AT THE PORTO RICO MARKET.

three cows and selling milk from door to door.

The houses were farther apart now, and soon they saw their own. As they came into the yard Juan's mother threw away a cigar she had been smoking and came forward with a broad-brimmed hat she had just made. His father put it on and was very much pleased.

Juan's mother moved the dishes, a hammock and a few ragged clothes out of the hut. His father packed them on the little horse and the family started up the mountain to find a good place for the new house. After awhile they came to a mango grove and agreed to build there. Juan's father cut down some tall palm trees that grew near. The little boy and his mother took off the bark and leaves.

Soon the poles were set in the ground in the form of a square. A row of poles in the middle divided the house into two rooms. The rolls of bark were stretched across the spaces between the poles and tied tight with heavy grass. There were no windows. It looked like a large cube ten feet square. Then a ridge pole was placed on top.

The sun was setting and Juan's father said he would thatch the roof the next day. By that Juan knew he meant to tie the large palm leaves to the ridge pole side by side. They were so long that they would reach to the edge of the roof and so tough that they would keep out the rain and heat. Night came, Juan and his mother lay on the floor and were soon asleep. His father slept in a hammock. —Isabelle F. Bowker in Chicago Record Herald.

HOW PEOPLE DROWN

Old Life-Saver Says They Never Signal for Assistance.

Impression That a Drowning Person Comes to the Surface Three Times Said to Be Without Foundation.

(Special Washington Letter.)

OF ALL the stories about drowning people, this is the most singular and interesting that the writer has ever heard. There is a free bathing beach in the Potomac river which is carefully guarded, and yet quite a number of bathers have lost their lives there. One of the life savers there to-day said: "In all my experience, and I have had considerable at various watering resorts, I have never known of a single instance of a drowning person calling for help."

"It is generally supposed that persons struggling in the water call for assistance, but such is not the case.
For some reason, which can hardly be explained, they never signal help.
They simply throw up one hand, not both, mind you, and under they go. I have noticed this particularly at the Washington beach. In not a single instance has there been a call for help.
I have pulled persons from the water within a few feet of the raft who were struggling for life, yet who never uttered a single outcry."

"It was only that I happened to notice their peculiar actions in the water, and not the noise they made, that impelled me to go after them. Time and again I have seen poor swimmers start from the shore and after padding a short distance throw up one hand and go under. It is the most remarkable thing imaginable that they give no signal of distress when help is so near. I have often asked rescued persons why they did not call for help, but they could give no explanation. They knew they were drowning, but the only sign of their peril was the involuntary raising of the arm. I have become so accustomed to this sort of thing—that peculiar manner in which a drowning person throws up the hand—that among a score of bathers diving, ducking and splashing about I can tell the one in danger in an instant."

"When he goes down it is with head thrown far back. As the water washes over the face up comes the hand. Then it slowly disappears, going under inch by inch."

"Then if anything is done it must be done quickly. I have heard many stories of a drowning person making a great racket to attract attention, but I do not believe them. When more than one person is in danger I have known of calls, but invariably they came from the one who could swim enough to save himself, but who could not bring the drowning one ashore.
The one in immediate peril simply goes under without a sound. I have been with fairly good swimmers who became exhausted, and who, without a word of warning, threw back the head as though about to float or swim on the back, and go under. As they sank one arm came up."

"One would suppose that a person who could swim would be exempt from this dumbness in the moment of danger, but it is not so. Of course, many persons who start from shore get out so far that they realize they cannot get back without assistance, and will call for help before their energy has been all spent. Possibly they may manage to keep afloat until assistance comes, so when they cry out they are not actually drowning. When it comes to giving up and going under they sink slowly, but without a sound."

"The more I think of this phase of the drowning question the more remarkable it seems. Boys have been drowned here who would have been rescued had they but called once.
They have gone under surrounded by companions and so close to the life guard that rescue would have been

JUST BEFORE DROWNING.

assured had there been any signal whatsoever.

"The impression that a drowning person comes to the surface three times is a mistake. In fact, in most cases he goes under once and stays there unless some one goes after him.
Ordinarily, a person overboard takes enough water into the body on first sinking to weight it so that it will not rise to the surface, but there seems to be no rule of nature governing this."

"I suppose if one goes under with the lungs full of air the body will come to the surface, but usually the first sinking is the last."

"This is our experience at the beach. Cases have been quite numbers where good swimmers dived from the raft and failed to come to the surface, going under, and staying there until one of the guards went down for them. Of course they were brought up unconscious and could not tell why they did not come up as usual. This is another of the mysteries of drowning. If there are more ways of killing a cat than one, so there are more reasons than one why people drown.

Good swimmers, bad swimmers, and those who can't swim at all go under and stay from time to time. If people will go into the water, people will drown. We guard against accidents to the best of our ability, but occasionally some one goes down never to come up alive. We guard against accidents, but despite our vigilance suddenly some one will be missed, going down without a word, surrounded by half a hundred persons, any one of whom would possibly have been able to extend a helping hand."

"As soon as the alarm is sounded everyone is called from the water and

"I'VE JUST COME IN, MISTER."

the guards begin diving and searching along the bottom. It is impossible for anyone to remain under long without being discovered. We have been very successful in saving those who have been taken from the bottom by working on them ashore. In only a comparatively few instances has it been impossible to revive the bather. Of the drownings the public always hears, but the lives that we save at the beach seldom attract attention. Day after day boys have been rescued who probably never even told their parents that they had been on the point of drowning."

"The first thing a boy does on being rescued, if in a conscious condition, is to tell a lie. He will declare that he was not drowning, but was only trying to fool some other boy.
It seems to be regarded as a rather disgraceful thing to be caught in the net of drowning. It doesn't reflect very much credit on the average boy, but it is a fact that as soon as he finds that a companion with whom he came to the beach is missing, the survivor begins to think of home and mother, and in nine cases out of ten will start for the bath house without giving the alarm."

"As to how long it is possible for a person to remain under the water and live I do not know. The longest I have any personal knowledge of is 15 minutes. This was the case of a colored man. He fell from a steamboat wharf at a summer resort in Maine. He came on the steamer which blew as it reached the wharf. I heard the whistle and looked at my watch.
It was four o'clock. Afterward I went to the wharf and was told that the man fell just as the whistle blew. No one had gone after him, so I dived in and brought him out of 20 feet of water. I looked at my watch and it was 15 minutes and some seconds after four. I had no hope for the man, but he was taken to the hospital and survived. I saw him often afterward."

"Boys should always have elder brothers or fathers or guardians with them," very earnestly said the lifesaver. "They will remain in the water too long, unless they are restrained. Almost invariably when I command a lad to come out he promptly replies: 'I only just come in, mister, I did I did, Jimmy, there, has been in for a long time;' when, as a matter of fact, both little rascals have been in the water for two hours or longer. Remaining long in the water weakens people, no matter how strong they may be naturally. The water opens every pore and sucks the skin dry. The boys who are allowed to stay in the water more than an hour are in fit condition to have cramps and drown. The youngsters would stay in the water until they sprouted fins, but the beach attendants are watchful and compel them to come ashore. Very often, after they are dressed, they look so different that they can come back inside of 12 minutes and get into the water again."

"During the past week 4,871 people took plunges from this beach, including men and strangers visiting the city, with boys or attendants. Some of the boys have formed clubs for aquatic sports, and they contest as earnestly as the members of popular organizations. They swim stated distances, accompanied by skills and life guards. They dive for depths or distances, but are carefully watched so that life-savers can dive after them if they do not come up very promptly. Altogether, this swimming beach on the Potomac is one of the most enjoyable and healthful of the summer resorts of the national capital."

"And, he might have added, always one of the most dangerous."

SMITH D. FRY.

Why They Like Missionaries.

The cannibals of Fly river, Guinea, do not eat missionaries because they have any religious dislike to them, but because as nonconsumers of rum and tobacco their flesh is more palatable than that of most other white men. They turn with aversion from flesh tainted with the flavor of alcohol and tobacco.

MEMBER OF CONGRESS FROM SANDWICH ISLANDS

Cured of Catarrh of the Stomach by Pe-ru-na.

CONGRESSMAN R. W. WILCOX, Delegate to Congress from Hawaii

Hon. Robert W. Wilcox, Delegate to Congress from Hawaii and the Sandwich Islands, in a recent letter from Washington, D. C., writes:

"I have used Peruna for dyspepsia and I cheerfully give you this testimonial. Am satisfied if it is used properly it will be of great benefit to our people. I can conscientiously recommend it to anyone who is suffering with stomach or catarrhal troubles."
—R. W. Wilcox.

All over this country are hundreds of people who are suffering from catarrh of the stomach who are waiting precious time, and enduring needless suffering. The remedies they try only temporarily palliate the distress, but never effect a cure. Remedies for dyspepsia have multiplied so rapidly that they are becoming as numerous as the leaves of the forest, and yet dyspepsia continues to flourish in spite of them all. This is due to the fact that the cause of dyspepsia is not recognized as catarrh.

If there is a remedy in the whole range of medicinal preparations that is in every particular adapted to dyspepsia, that remedy is Peruna. This remedy is well nigh invincible in these cases.

Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, O., says:
"In my large practice and correspondence I have yet to learn of a single case of atonic dyspepsia which has not either been greatly benefited or cured by Peruna."

No one suffering with catarrh of the stomach or dyspepsia, however slight, can be well or happy. It is the cause of so many distressing symptoms that it is a most dreaded disease. Peruna acts immediately on the seat of the trouble, the inflamed mucous membranes lining the stomach and a lasting cure is effected.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peru-na, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case, and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

"But she's from Boston, you know."
"Yes, I fancied so. She showed horribly when I asked her to marry me yesterday. But why does that save her from worrying over the heat?"
"She never knows how hot it really is."
"Explain."
"Why, when she takes the thermometer from the hook her hands are so cold that the mercury gets a chill and falls down in a comatose condition, and by the time she can bring her nearsighted spectacles to bear on the tube the freezing point is in sight. 'Fifty three,' she said yesterday as she stared at the thermometer. 'Isn't it singular how the imagination will affect the human mind? Now, I don't call that hot.' And it was actually 91 degrees in the shade!"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Why She Was Pensive.

"You say," she murmured as she watched the moonlight on the sea, "that I am an angel."
"Yes."
She was silent for a long time.
"Why so pensive?" he inquired sulkily.
"I was wondering whether, some day, when the thermometer was up in the vicinity of a hundred, and the ice man forgot us and the cream is sour, and you have a headache because you have been working hard—I was wondering whether you'd call me an angel then. Don't answer right away," she added in that cold business-like tone that women are learning to assume. Take your time and think it over."
—Washington Star.

Looked Like It.

"John, dear," said the bride, after they had got to keeping house, with a never-vanishing "marriage room." "I believe all our friends think we are perfectly miserable."
"Why, my dear?" cried the astonished husband.
"Well, they seem to be carrying on the idea that 'misery loves company.'"—Philadelphia Bulletin.

Question Answered.

Yes, August Flower still has the largest sale of any medicine in the civilized world. Your mothers and grandmothers never thought of using anything else for Indigestion or Biliousness. Doctors were scarce and they seldom heard of Appendicitis, Nervous Prostration or Heart failure, etc. They used August Flower to clean out the system and stop fermentation of undigested food, regulate the action of the liver, stimulate the nervous and organic action of the system, and that is all they took when feeling dull and bad with headaches and other aches. You only need a few doses of Green's August Flower, in liquid form, to make you satisfied there is nothing serious the matter with you. For sale by R. F. Haynes and J. H. Orme. We now have our own sulphur spring. Some years ago this spring was found on A. C. Bibb's farm. Recently donations have been made for improvements on it. It has been dug to the depth of sixteen feet and tiling has been sunk. A shed will be erected and other improvements brought about to make it convenient to the public. These improvements are due to William Bridges, who has given both time and money to the enterprise. One day it promises to become at least a local resort.
